¹ TATP's lodestar was reduced by all of Mario Alioto's illegible hand-written time entries, as well as 20% for block-billing and another 20% for billing in quarter-hour increments; it was further reduced by the lodestar amounts claimed by the three late-added, so-called "trial firms" (i.e., Freedman Boyd, Fine Kaplan and Hulett Harper) whose fees should come from TATP's awarded fees. If all of Mr. Alioto's handwritten time is included – which it should not -- the TATP lodestar is $11,794,056.02 and its allocated fee should then be $11,794,056.02.

♣ Contributed no funds to the assessment account; no significant risk factors.

♦ 20% reduction for block-billing.

♦ 20% reduction for quarter-hour increments.

♥ Contributed no funds to the assessment account; no financial risk. These amounts are paid out of TATP fees.

² Zelle did most of the important and valuable work in the case and should be granted the biggest multiplier.
